It has, however, occurred to me that to those of us who participated in or were witnesses of the bloody contest through which the nation passed in the years 1861-2-3-4 and 5, an hour might be spent profitably in an examination into the nature of a struggle with which our own experience is intimately connected. The analogies of history are numerous and it is an advantage to trace them. There is not a chapter which does not light our own paths and illustrate the tendencies of our common nature. We may thus see the same passions developed in different ages, and distinct epochs marked by similar events. The spirit of tyranny in some and resistance to tyranny in others, slavery and the love of freedom are the characteristics of every age and...
